

A MEMORABLE SCENE

During Ex-Speaker Reed's Great Speech in the House.

REPUBLICAN LEADER'S OVATION

One of the Greatest Ever Witnessed in the Halls of Congress—How the Maine Giant Appeared—Did Not Speak for Applause, But Got It. Distinguished People in the Audience who Listened Intently to What He Said.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 2.—Few party leaders in Congress have received a like ovation to that accorded ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed when he delivered his great speech for Protection in closing the debate on the Wilson bill for the Republican side yesterday. The scene throughout the delivery of the speech was memorable and is hard to describe.

As the leader of the Republicans in the house rose to his feet by his place to the left of the main aisle the occupants of the galleries broke into cheers, and his colleagues on the floor applauded vigorously by clapping their hands. For several minutes the roar of cheers and the musket-like reports of the hand-clapping filled the house with an uproar loud and continuous. As the applause continued Mr. Reed frowned and shook his head in disapproval of the popular outburst, and raised his hand in a deprecatory manner. But the house and galleries would not be stilled. Louder swelled the cheers and sharper the fusillade of hand-clapping. In vain he turned to his colleagues and endeavored to still the continuous flood of popular demonstration, which seemed to gather momentum and volume as it rolled around him and drowned the utterances of his voice.

ATTENTION PAID HIM BY EVERY ONE.

When at last the whirlwind of applause blew itself out and a calm settled over the house, Mr. Reed straightened himself up and faced the speaker. The house in a moment was silent and every eye in the vast and distinguished audience was turned upon the man from Maine. There was not a half-dozen vacant chairs within the semi-circle of seats facing the speaker's desk. The chairs were occupied by members of the house, and Democrats and Republicans alike, the occupants turned to face the man who was making the last appeal for protection. A circle of eager and attentive faces peered over the green baize curtains at the rear of the seats, where senators and distinguished officials, who were accorded the privileges of the floor, together with ex-congressmen and ladies, were gathered to catch every word which fell from the lips of the man from Maine. Never within the recollections of the oldest inhabitant of the press gallery had a larger, a more attentive or a more flattering audience faced a speaker.

Mr. Reed began his remarks in a tone which, while not particularly loud, was clear, and every word rang out clean cut and distinct and audible in every corner of the hall. Without effort he seemed to speak as if it were a pleasure to talk, as if he were laboring for him. He faced the Democratic side of the house, the greater part of the time adjusting his remarks to those on the opposite side of the aisle which marks the political division of the house.

NO TALKING FOR APPLAUSE.

If there was any one thing more apparent than another as his speech progressed it was that Mr. Reed did not want applause, that he was not speaking for the plaudits of his colleagues and did not seek or care for remarks of approval. Several times he raised his hand in deprecation of outbursts of applause.

Mr. Reed spoke without notes and without apparent reference to his memory. Only occasionally did he have recourse to a slip of paper upon his desk, to read a quotation or to clinch a statement with reference to a report. Unlike the average tariff speaker, who loads his desk with books and ponderous documents, as if fortifying himself behind a breastwork of literature and statistics from possible attack, Mr. Reed's desk was entirely clear. He needed no breastwork or fortification.

Once only in his speech an effort was indeed made to raid him, but he met the onslaught and repulsed it. He made a statement, which the Democrats quickly took up, and by applause endeavored to turn it against Mr. Reed. When the noise subsided Mr. Reed quietly remarked that he was glad to see that his Democratic friends recognized a bit of truth, but he was afraid they thought it an error.

Mr. Reed's manner was grave and earnest to a degree. The early portion of his speech was devoid of everything but solid argument. He seemed to lay aside the keen weapons of sarcasm and witty retorts with which he is usually armed, and to wield only the ponderous hammer of fact and figure with which he pounded the position of the opposition.

MEMBERS CROWDED AROUND HIM.

As the speech progressed and the speaker warmed to the subject his audience came closer around him. The main aisle filled up with members who seated themselves upon the raised edge along the floor. Chairs were brought and placed in a semi-circle in front of Speaker Reed's desk. In one of these sat "Silver Dollar Brand," a conspicuous figure, the idol and champion of free silver. Opposite him was Stephen H. Elkins, ex-secretary of war, to the right of Speaker Reed, the silver-bair and ruddy countenance of Barnes Compton, of Maryland, was visible. Representative Swanson, of Virginia, Aldrich, of Chicago, Enloe, of Tennessee, and others formed the circle.

Near the front of the Democratic side sat Chairman Wilson, of the ways and means committee, an attentive listener throughout Mr. Reed's remarks, and by his side were the two Breckinridges, cousins, William C. P., of Kentucky, and Charles R., of Arkansas. Across the aisle Bourke Cockran, McMillin and other Democratic members of the committee, which prepared the bill, gave close attention. Speaker Reed, in his chair behind the presiding officer's desk, leaned back and listened to the exposition of protection by its high priest and prophet in this Congress.

SENATORS INTERESTED.

A large number of senators dropped in and out of the house during the progress of Mr. Reed's speech. Senator Aldrich occupied a seat next but one to that of Mr. Reed and Senator Stockbridge one immediately in front of the orator. Both of them listened to the speech throughout with the most perfect attention. Senator Martin of Kansas sat on the Democratic side, and on the Republican side were to be seen Senators Frye, Washburn and Perkins of California.

Cardinal Gibbons was in the speaker's box of the reserved gallery on the east, his red cap making him a conspicuous figure.

AN ALLUSION TO HAWAII.

Several times did Mr. Reed touch a popular chord and bring forth a resonant and irrepressible response from the audience. Once, when he alluded to the Hawaiian situation and referred to the administration's attempt to place a barbarian queen upon an abandoned throne, the audience cheered and cheered again, and after the first outburst seemed to catch its breath and cleared again. When the ninety minutes allotted to Mr. Reed expired and he closed his speech the Republican side of the house and the galleries broke into a storm of applause which was positively deafening. A page darted down the aisle to present Mr. Reed a mammoth bunch of roses, but when he reached his desk the seat was empty. The Maine giant, modest man, had fled from the place of his compeers and the top of his bald head could just be seen disappearing through the cloak room door.

WILL VAILLANT DIE?

The Government Said to be Hesitating. Growing Sentiments for Mercy.

PARIS, Feb. 2.—The crowd which gathered on the Place De La Roquette yesterday evening in anticipation of witnessing the preparations for the execution of Vaillant, the condemned anarchist, was very small in comparison to assemblages witnessed there every night during the past week.

It is now reported that if Vaillant is sent to the guillotine his execution will not take place until the middle of next week. The Edair, referring to the efforts being made to obtain a commutation of Vaillant's sentence, says that the government is hesitating as to what course to pursue and that this hesitation is caused by the fact that it seems public opinion in favor of mercy to the condemned man is increasing.

MURDERED AND ROBBED.

William Bush and His Wife Found Tiddled With Bullets.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., Feb. 2.—At Luzerne, Ala., Mr. and Mrs. William Bush, respectable people living about five miles from the station, have been found murdered. When the neighbors arose they saw the windows to the Bush residence open. The doors were securely fastened. Mr. and Mrs. Bush lay in bed, wretched in blood, their bodies riddled with bullets. The crime was committed but a few hours before as the wounds were fresh. Who the assassins were is not known. The cause is thought to be robbery, as the Bushes were known to have considerable money, and none of it can be found.

WILL NOT DELAY.

The Senate Committee Will Act Promptly On the Tariff Bill.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 2.—Senator Voorhees, chairman of the senate finance committee, said to-day that the tariff bill would not be delayed for a day after it should reach the senate, and that he and other members would proceed to work upon it without any loss of time, whatever. The manner in which it will be considered will depend entirely upon the committee on finance. In the matter of the time the committee will be controlled largely by the extent of the hearings. It is generally conceded that some hearings will be granted.

Good News for Democrats.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 2.—Now that the tariff bill has passed the house and the bond issue is under way Secretary Carlisle is expected to devote considerable time during the present month to looking over the papers in the cases of applications for office under the treasury department. There will be a good deal of work in this direction. In the customs service alone there already exists a number of vacancies in presidential offices. These added to those that will occur on or before March 1 by expiration of term or otherwise will make a total of thirty-one.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value of health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

"DON'T GIVE UP THE SHIP."

Noble Advice From a Great Man.

Words Which Will Last Forever as a Moral Lesson.

Oh! If More Would Only Weigh Well Such Expressions.

When Captain Lawrence told his men not to give up the ship, he little knew what a valuable lesson he was teaching to the world. How many times we become discouraged and despondent and are ready to give up in despair, when with a little more pluck and perseverance all might yet be well. A good example of a man who was determined to fight to the end, is Mr. Joseph Gold, of Northfield, Vt., whose experience is certainly most interesting.

"Five years ago," said Mr. Gold, "I had a severe case of typhoid fever which prostrated me terribly. My limbs swelled to twice their natural size, and nobody thought I would recover. I got through it, but was left in a very bad condition; weak, nervous and debilitated. I was determined to get well, however, if possible, and I used Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

MR. JOSEPH GOLD.

"I received great benefit from its use immediately. I could sleep better, my appetite improved, and my general health and strength were much better from its use.

"We have used this wonderful remedy in our family for some time, and do not think we could get along without it. We have an old lady in our family who is now eighty years old, and who takes it regularly three times a day. She was very weak and nervous, and her hand shook so she could not feed herself, but now that shaking has disappeared and she eats quite heartily. Her food does not distress her at all and she is not nervous, but on the contrary is quiet and very comfortable.

"We can truly say that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is the best medicine we ever used."

A well known lady of our acquaintance, Mrs. L. B. Waterman, says: "I am a neighbor of Mr. Joseph Gold and knew all about his case and I can testify that every word is true."

Don't give up the ship! Many a wrecked constitution might be saved if but a stout heart was in command.

If you have been suffering and tried all manner of remedies without benefit, take Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It will restore you to sound and vigorous health. It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. Dr. Greene, its discoverer, can be consulted at his office, 35 West Fourteenth street, New York City, free of charge. If you live out of town, write him a description of your disease and he will return an answer without charge, advising you as to the best course to pursue.

Burglars Held.

NORRISTOWN, PA., Feb. 2.—Burglars with a horse and wagon drove up to Pool & Son's large merchant tailoring establishment in Lanedale at 2 o'clock this morning, broke the glass in the door, opened the bolts and carried off $800 worth of goods. They were seen by several men, but they later thought the goods were being removed by the firm for an early start for Philadelphia, which is not unusual. After the thieves had loaded their wagon they set fire to the place and escaped. For a time it looked as though the entire building would be destroyed, but the flames were finally subdued with a loss of $500, which is covered by insurance.

A Case of Leprosy.

FORT WAYNE, IND.—The residents of East Wayne and Francis streets are greatly excited over the discovery of a supposed case of leprosy in a boarding house in that neighborhood. The patient is a Polish Jew named Goldstein, who, for several weeks, has been engaged in a house to house canvass of the sale of notions. He was taken in charge by the health authorities and placed in isolated quarters on the poor farm two miles south of the city.

Hidden Treasure Found.

WALTHAM, MASS., Feb. 2.—A hidden treasure valued at several thousand dollars, consisting of gold watches, Spanish doubloons and jewelry, was found by workmen at an old colonial hotel to-day. A diamond stud of fine quality, weighing over eight karats, with a number of ancient papers, was also found. The lessee of the house has taken possession of the valuables.

A Preacher Assassinated.

FAYETTEVILLE, TENN., Feb. 2.—Rev. D. C. Cook, colored, pastor of the colored Baptist church here, and one of the most prominent among the preachers and teachers of his race in this section, was waylaid and shot at the door of his home last night. He died instantly. Jonas Clark, colored, has been arrested on suspicion.

A Draw Fight.

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—Lawyer Charles W. Dwight and Assistant State's Attorney Knight fought an exciting one round battle in Judge Chelain's court to-day. Dwight had called Knight a liar. Both attorneys were fined. Honors were even.

Skating Match Arranged.

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 2.—A match has been arranged between Hagen, the world's champion skater, and Joseph Donohue, of Newburg, New York.

THOUSANDS who have been cured gratefully testify to the merits of Radam's Microbe Killer. Read what they say by calling for a 50-page book, free at Logan Drug Co., Wheeling, W. Va.

A Remarkable Discovery.

A remarkable discovery is one of the chronic proclamations of advertisers. Cubeb Cough Cure is not such, it is an established remedy of known merit, made on scientific principles by experienced chemists. Sold by Alex. T. Young, John Klari, Wheeling, and Bowie & Co., Bridgeport, Ohio.

"Mr. Johnson, that is a fine horse you have there; what is he worth?"

"Three hundred and fifty dollars."

"No, not so much as that?"

"Yes, every cent of it, and another fifty on top of it."

"Are you sure?"

"Yes, I'll swear to it."

"All right."

"What are you so very inquisitive for?"

"Merely for assessing purposes. I am the assessor for this ward and only wanted to know what you rated your nag at."

"Oh, I see what you're driving at. Well, for the purpose of sale, he's worth every cent of it; but for taxation he's not worth more'n twenty-five dollars."

Thus it is that circumstances alter cases. The sunshine of to-day may be fog to-morrow, and the feast to-night produce an aching head when the sun rises again. But there is

One Thing That Never Changes.

We have told you about it before. We will tell you again. It is our wonderful series entitled
